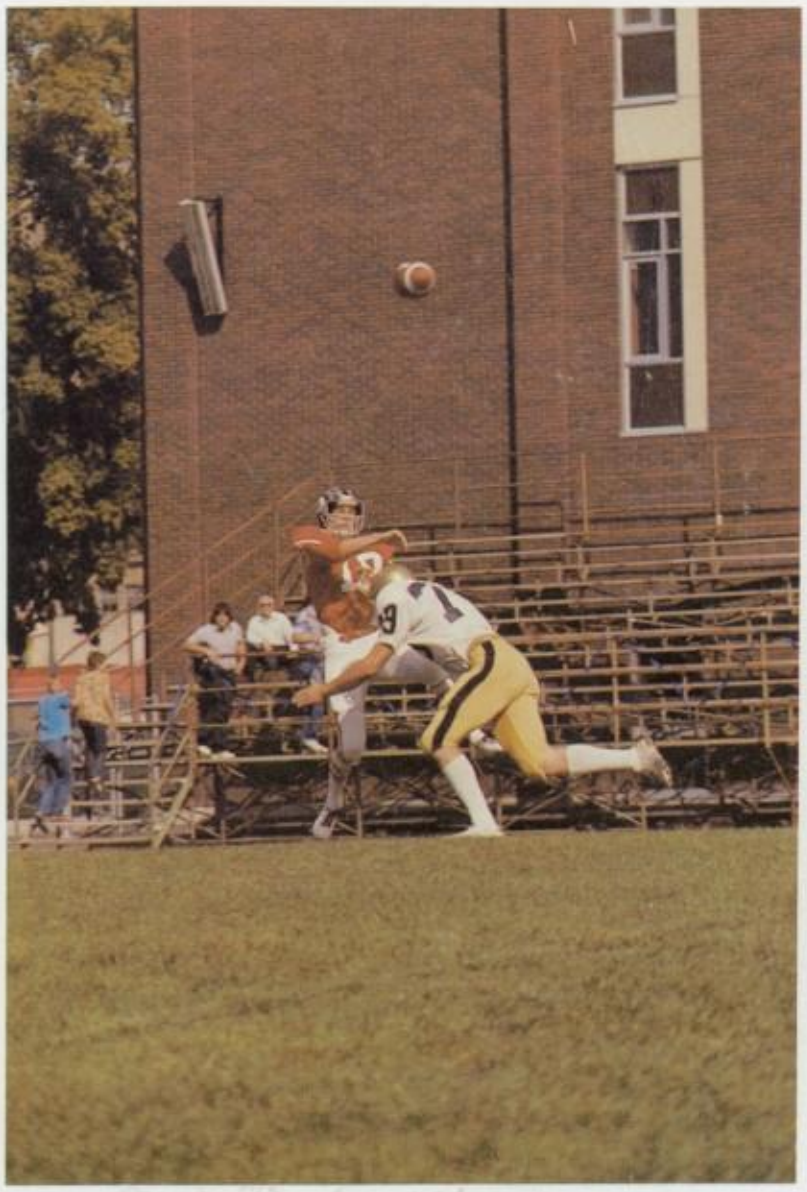
TO FORM A MORE PERFECT UNION...



. . . we harmonize body and mind to learn.

Body and mind become as one . . .

. . . before we can achieve success.

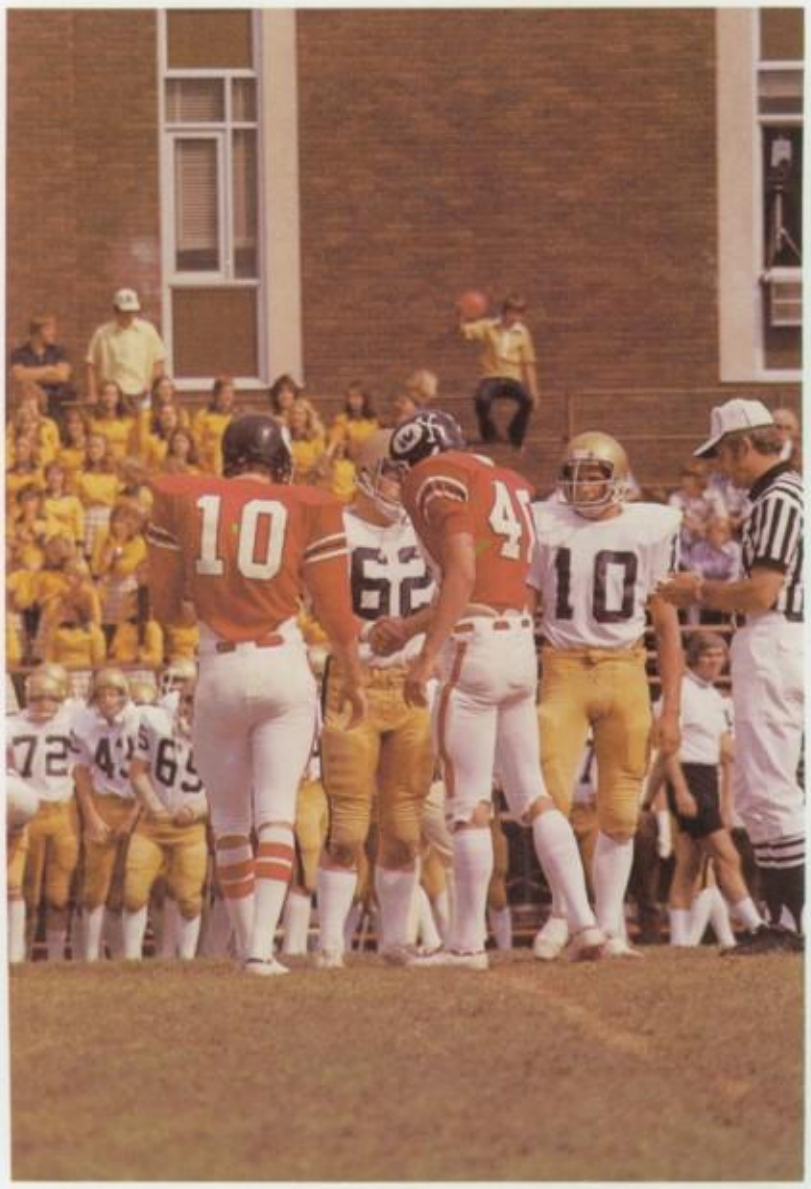
To perfect this union each individual emerges. . .

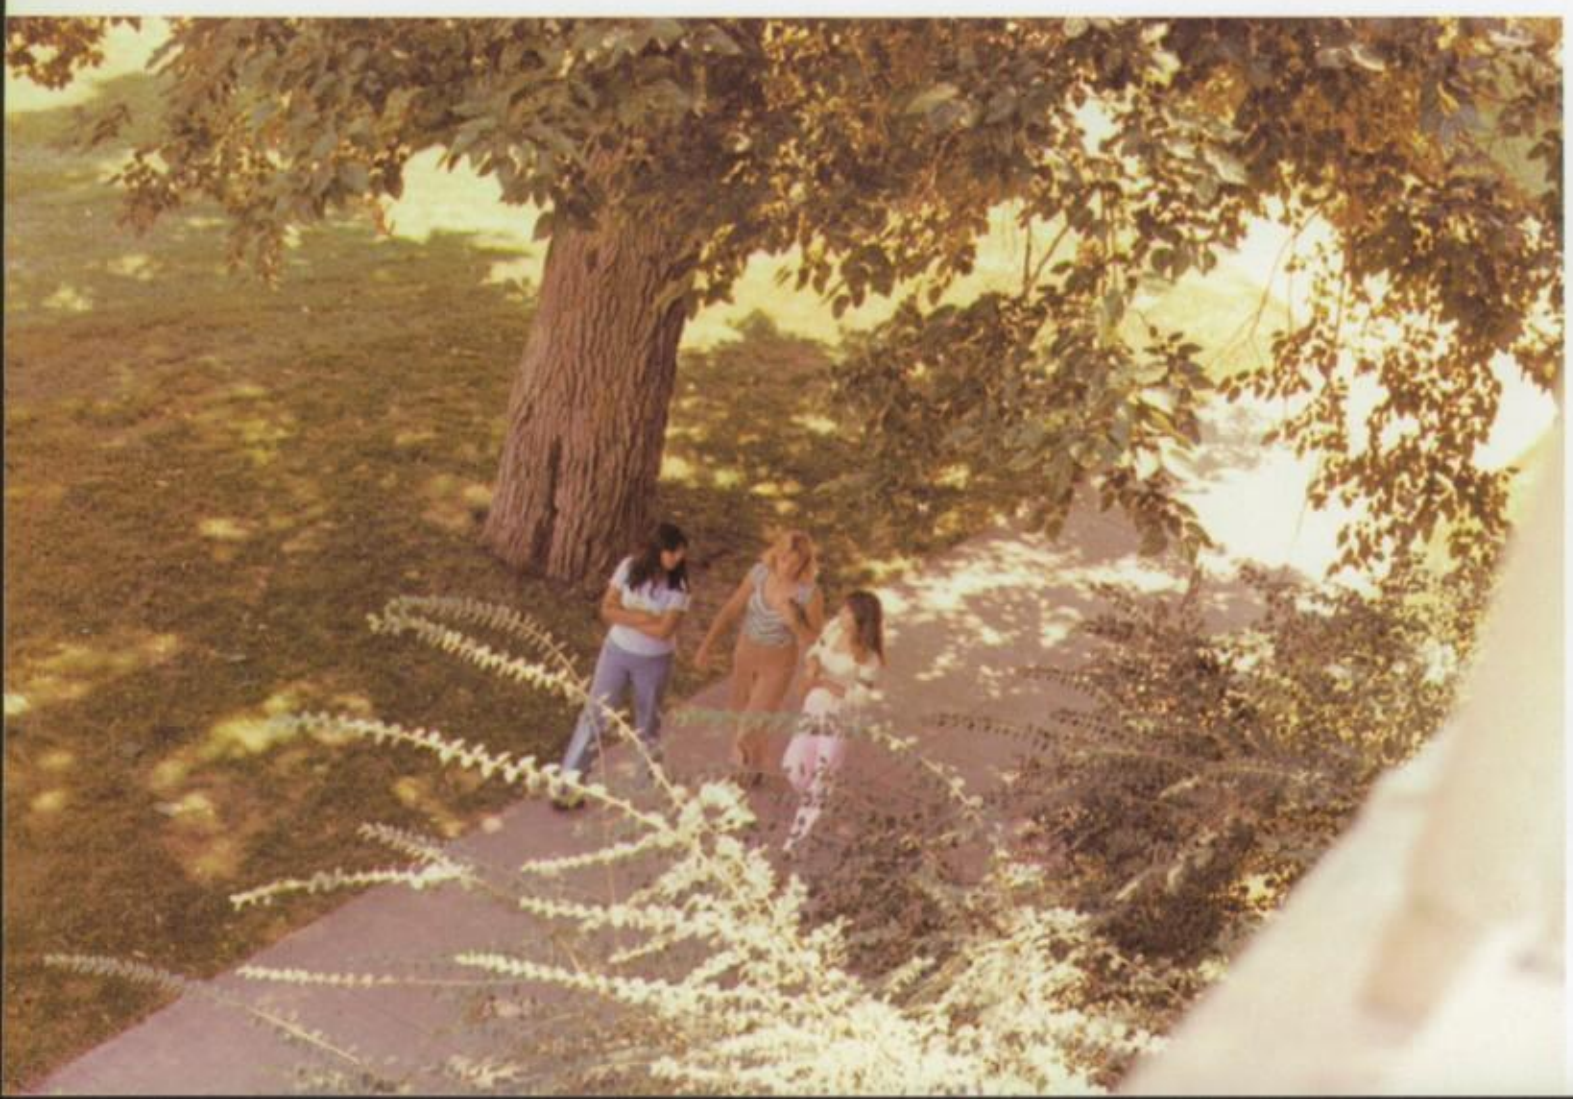
. . . and then subsides into a studentbody.

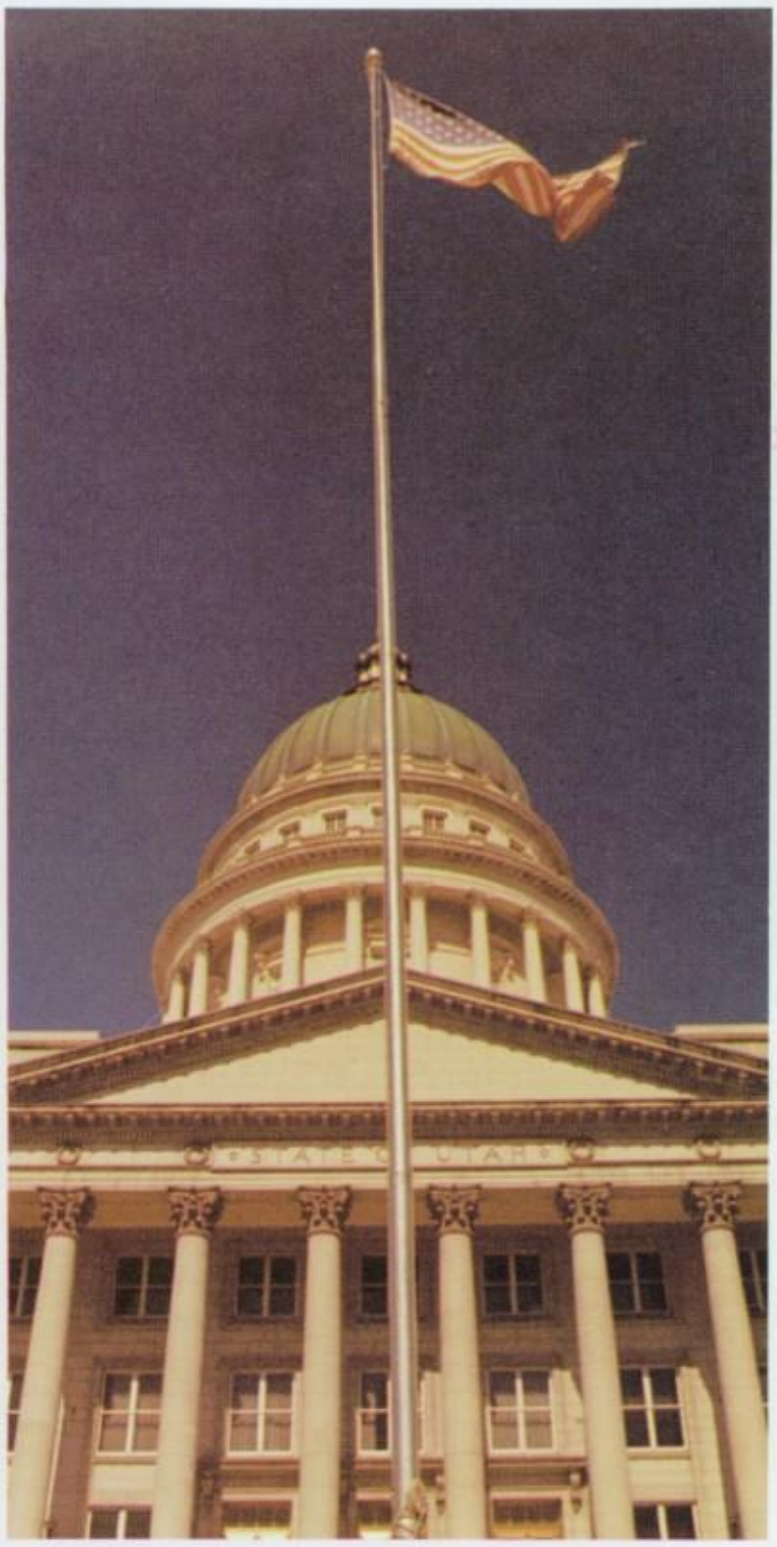
As we learn, grow, and feel . . .

. . . we realize our responsibility to our country's unity.

By uniting together we form a more perfect union . . .







. . . as a person, a school, a nation.

Lisa,

we'll have to have some more apples this summer. its been a good year, but next year will be better!!!!

Thank for being my Friend

love,
Jan

ASW Hosts Dance, Round-up; Promotes Student Involvement

Meeting first period every day, ASW officers worked to solve problems and plan activities for the 1975-76 year of the Panther. They organized fence decorating, chose the most outstanding alumni award recipients, and arranged Homecoming events that brought interested alumni back to the halls of West. They scheduled Spirit Week, Western Round-up, assemblies, stomps, and - new this year - the E-Board dance.

Led by Spence Christensen, ASW President, the officers united and strove to inspire students in all aspects of school life. Each morning the six-foot, eleven-inch president announced the day's activities over channel WHTV West High. Associated with Spence were Gary Takenaka, vice-president; Linda Watson, corresponding secretary; JaNene Patrick, recording secretary; and Kathy Kawata, historian, along with other E-Board officers.

Addressing the studentbody, Spence stated;
"Dear 'You Guys',

Our high school years have been a highlight of our youth. I hope that we as an E-Board have done our part to make them worthwhile. Though these years are only four, they are instrumental in shaping our future. Thanks to all that have made West all that it is, dear in our hearts."

E-Board Leader Demonstrates Tricycle Talent

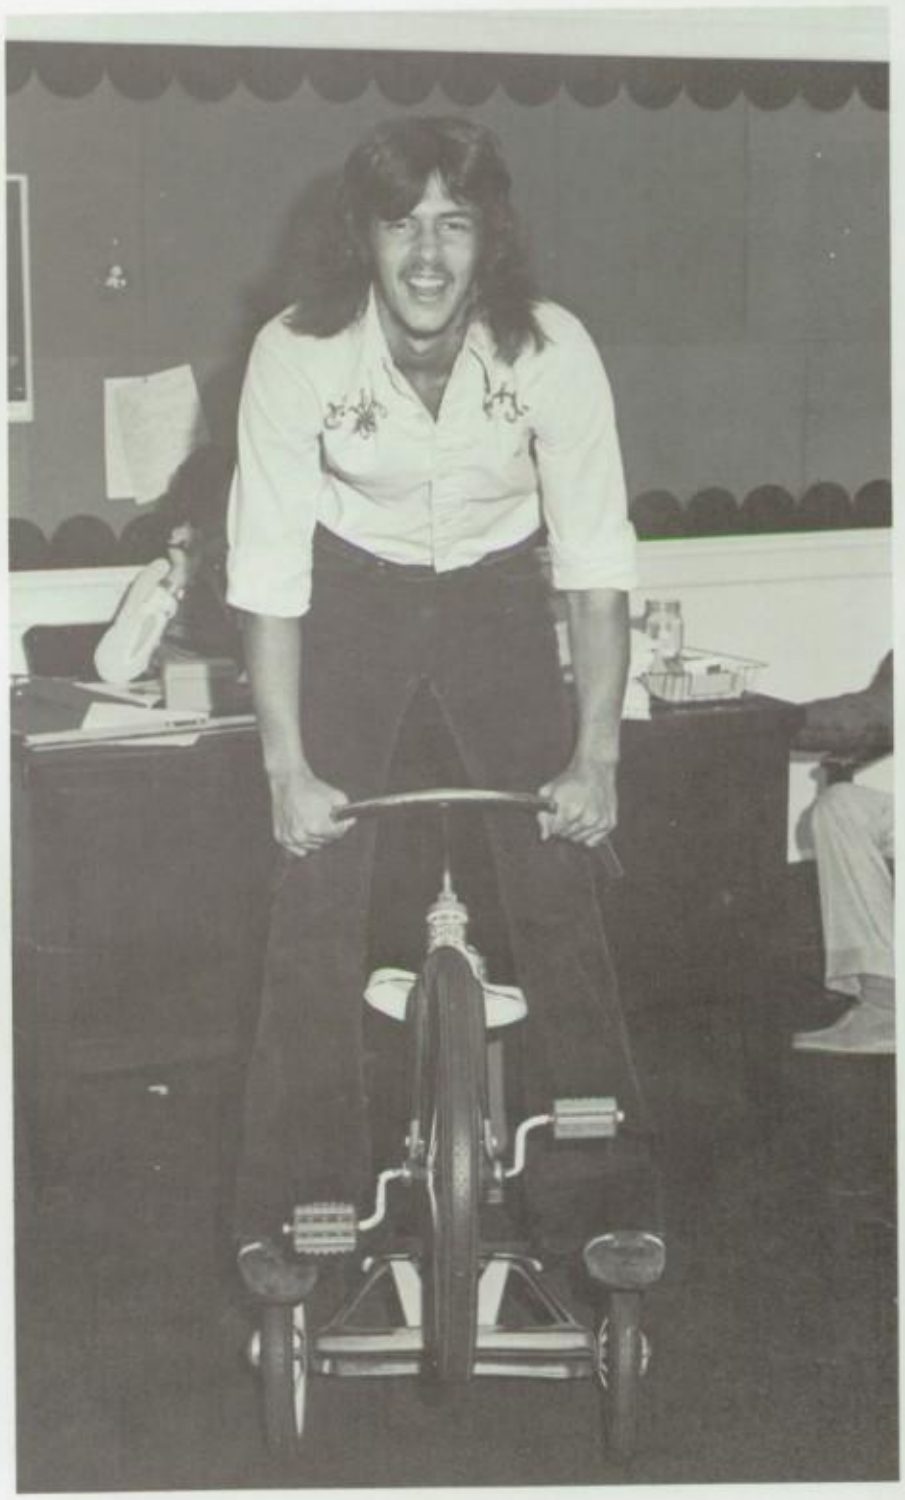
Hello day and a stomp on September 12, sponsored by the E-Board, introduced the 1975-76 year to West Panthers. With the election of the freshmen and sophomore class presidents on September 18, the E-Board members totaled 13.

Lifting the spirit and morale of the student body was the main objective of E-Board during Homecoming Week. With Mr. Robert Blackhurst leading, they sponsored lunch-time activities, "The Dating Game," the annual fence decorating, and the alumni assembly.

Adding Christmas joy to the community, E-Board sponsored the annual Sub-for-Santa. Families in the vicinity had extra spirit because of the generosity of West High students.

E-Board, cheerleaders, and Pep Club united to promote school spirit during Spirit Week, 1976. Lunch time contests and dress-up days were instrumental in achieving this spirit, February 2-6.

Western Round-up on April 30 again saw E-Board engaged in planning Panther action. Western day and the annual hoe-down saw students paying tribute to how the West was won.



Corby enthusiastically performs one of his varied talents for E-Board as he pops a perfectly balanced wheelie with senior expertise.

JaNene Patrick strongly expresses her opposing point of view as E-Board discusses the success or failure of the "W" project.

Junior class president, Bob Price, takes it easy as he, along with other E-Board members, plan activities for the school.

20-Member Student Senate Ponder School Problems

Panthers held Student Senate elections on November 10, voting in five freshmen for the first time. With a total of twenty members, five from every class, these legislators studied the constitution of West. Closely associating with the counselors on the homeroom guidance program, Senate discussed school problems such as absenteeism, tardiness, vandalism, values, litter, and loitering in the halls. Every Thursday students expressed their likes and ideas on the topic of that week. Representatives filled out evaluation forms to give the Senate needed feedback. Officers in Senate were Steve Prince, chairman; Darrell Reed, vice-chairman; and Rosie Titze, secretary. In connection with E-Board, Student Senate helped to collect items for the Sub-for-Santa and demonstrated their merriment by decorating the main foyer with snowflakes and yuletide Christmas cheer.

Senior Officers Work Toward School Unity

Mr. John Padjen
Sponsor

Working for the 449-member class of '76, Henry White, Senior class president; Joe Stetich, vice president; and Kathy Wolters, secretary began their first project by compiling the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of 2225 Panthers for the student directory. After the proofreading and correcting by the senior officers, and the printing at East High, the students received their directories in late November.

Listening to college orientations, selecting a field of study or vocation, and cramming for the ACT and SAT tests were only part of the seniors' daily routine as they fulfilled graduation requirements.

The excitement of graduation brought the search for commencement speakers, measurements for caps and gowns, and the ordering of graduation announcements.

The Graduation Dance, held at the Lafayette Ballroom on June 4, gave seniors a chance to see the "W" lighted in their honor and one last look at themselves as West High's class of '76.

Mr. John Padjen volunteered his time as Senior class sponsor, and helped solve the problems which confronted the Senior class officers.

A school of extremes with Juniors in the middle:
Some living in thoughtful solitude;

A year of certainty, confusion, anticipation,
A year of learning from other people why to become a part.

New faces appeared in the halls to returning juniors and seniors at the beginning of the 1976 year. The new Sophomore class elected as officers, Tim Gautier, president; Kim Clark, vice-president; and Kathy Cooley, secretary. The elections, held on September 18, gave them their first taste of the democratic system at West. On September 3, an orientation meeting for Freshmen and Sophomores stressed the importance of graduating from high school. Cheerleaders taught them "West, Our Alma Mater", "The Victory Song," and "Boogie Down." Decorating a section of the fence for Homecoming was their first major project. Structured in white paper napkins with red poster paper on it, the fence was a picture of a Panther with Skyline eagle feathers sticking from its mouth. A sign confessed, "I didn't mean to eat the whole bird." Sophomore and Freshman Week, new during the Bicentennial year, gave juniors and seniors the opportunity to show respect for the two younger classes during the week of January 5-10. The annual Sophomore stomp, hosted by the officers, provided all classes a chance to mingle and dance.

"I am a freshman. I am entering school life as a part of the first freshman class at West High. I am one person in a class of 575 students, the largest class in the school."

Mark Maldonado, Freshman class president, became the first freshman member of E-Board. Stephanie Nagata and Lisa Match shared Mark's responsibilities as vice president and secretary. Learning the traditions of West, Mark, Stephanie and Lisa started their year's activities by decorating a fence for Homecoming with a red crepe paper background and black panther head. Among their other activities they co-sponsored Freshman and Sophomore Week on January 5-10. The Week included guessing games and Boy's and Girl's Control Days. The stomp in the gym on Friday night proved to be the highlight of the week.

The freshman class offers assisted E-Board during the year by sorting the student directories and tallying votes for such projects as Student Senate and the "W" project. Mark felt his biggest aim was to get the school to accept and understand the freshmen, West's first ninth-grade class.

ADMINISTRATION

Dr. Fowler expressed his appreciation for West by stating, "We've had a great studentbody and faculty. In all the years I've been at West, I've never seen more school spirit than we've had this year. The support we received from parents and the community was fantastic. As I looked around during the activities, we've had as many parents and alumni there as students and faculty." One of Dr. Fowlers's goals was to continue the development of the Honors programs for talented students and to arrange the alternate program to assist students that need help in academic skills.

Another goal of Dr. Fowler's was aimed at remodeling and updating the school. With the freshman class coming in, Dr. Fowler planned to accommodate them. Directing the faculty that jumped from 57 to 87 members, and the addition of another counselor and assistant principal, Dr. Fowler tried to be a friend to them all. Dr. Fowler enjoys changes: "It's exciting. I'm not one who stays in one place doing the same things. I love to associate with different people."

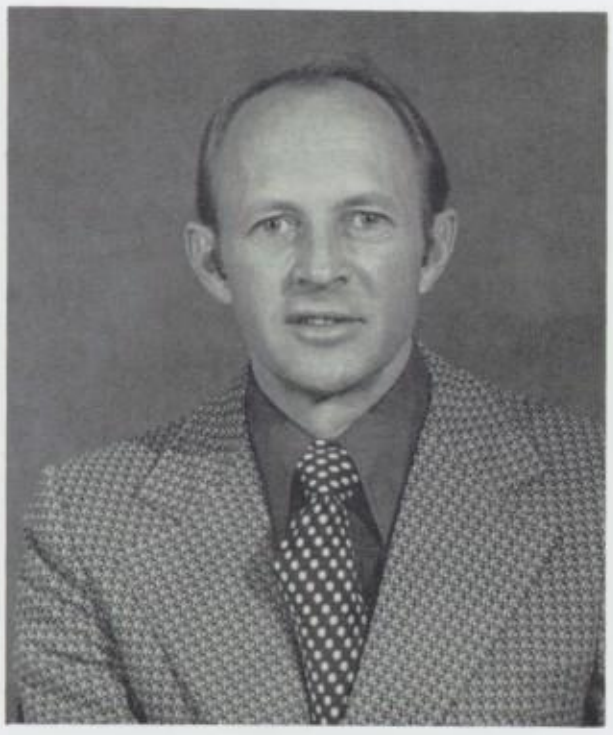
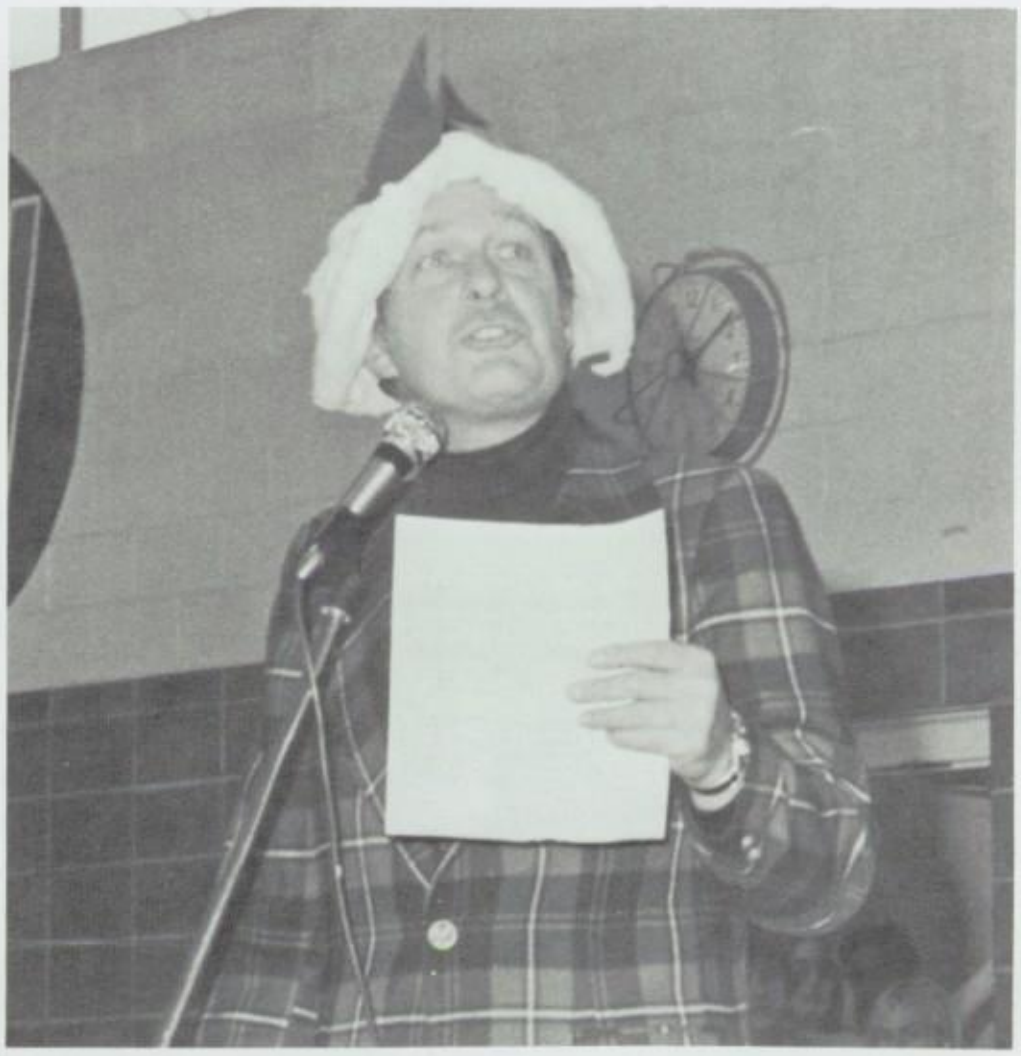
Assistant Principal

Mr. Ralph O'Brien
Assistant Principal



Mr. Roger Tucker
Assistant Principal



At the pep assembly for the final state 4A football championship game, Mr. Blackhurst ably portrays a Panther forefather of "200 Years Ago, Today."

"People with many backgrounds is what sets West above many other schools" according to Mr. Robert Blackhurst. He wished the students of West a comfortable happy life with the association of others. It disturbed him when he saw students hurt physically and emotionally; and because of his concern, he tried to solve these problems. In charge of activities, Mr. Blackhurst personally enjoyed the athletic success of West.

After leaving Glendale Junior High as principal, Mr. Ralph O'Brien became one of West's new assistant principals. Setting up the curriculum for the year, he organized the master program with the faculty to meet the needs of students, often making adjustments for their benefit. As he continued to work at West, he stated he "hopes to help give us the finest school in the state, bar none."

Mr. Roger Tucker, new to West from Jordan Junior High, frequently walked the halls sending students back to class or talked with students in his small office. His duties were attendance and discipline for the 9th and 11th grades. He stated that one of the challenges that faced West High was to fully accept the freshmen and help them understand the necessity of an education and the value of social relationships.

Student Competence Concerns Staff Of 7

Competence and Accountability these were several concerns of the Board of Education. The Board initiated the program to improve the quality of education in public schools and to assure students survival skills. Each teacher made the report during the year which an assistant principal and departmental head approved. In this report the teacher stated the competencies students should accomplish in the class.

Dr. Eugene Garcia came to West every three months to discuss school projects with interested parents. Dr. Garcia and Mr. Childs represented West's views at the regular Board meetings on the first and third Tuesday of each month.

Working daily to help students with class schedules and individual problems, the five-member counseling staff prepared students to meet the challenges o, high school life.

The processing of students was not the only concern of counselors, Mr. Anderson, Mrs. Hargraves, and Mr. Prpich. They worked throughout the year on the homeroom guidance program. The topics ranged from the "W" project to "IALAC" I Am Loveable and Capable, to values, to West High's image and influence on the community. One of the main objectives of homeroom guidance is for the counselors to help the students become aware of life and the world around them.

Happy and content, Dee Anderson takes a minute to chat with a friend.

Secretaries Complete Clerical Tasks Using 3000 Reams Of Paper

Typing announcements, filing records, taking care of class schedule changes, and coping with a larger student body of 2200 students, eight secretaries worked daily for the smooth flow of school activities. New to West this year was Mrs. Carol Butler, ASW Treasurer for the students. She handled money for all clubs, publications, sports, and social activities. In the four offices secretaries used over 3,000 reams of paper to complete school needs. Mrs. Louise Bisignano, in charge of the bookstore, sold paperbacks, supplies, and Take-State ribbons.

Into its fifth year, the Career Development Center stressed the career educational concept which adds relevancy to all academic and vocational classes. Concerned counselors helped students make a realistic career search based on accurate information about themselves. The four member staff assisted students with various interest tests, job placement, community awareness programs, scholarships, and stimulated students to develop and achieve self confidence.

Serving students and faculty, the Instructional Media Center increased its facilities with new materials and equiment. The Center added two display cases which exhibited new paperbacks and art depicting holidays with witches, turkeys, and Santa Claus. They expanded the video tape cabinet, making ten more films available for viewing.

12 Scholars Win Sterling Honors

Twelve students nominated to represent West in the fifteenth annual Sterling Scholar awards this year participated in the preliminary judging held on March 24. They prepared portfolios exhibiting research papers, certificates, awards, and a letter of recommendation from the nominating faculty member in each department. Sponsoring the Sterling Scholar Awards were the DESERET NEWS, KSL radio, and KSL-TV. Scholarships, leadership, citizenship and interest in their individual categories were the basis for selection of the winners and close contenders. April was the final month for judging, with KSL telecasting the program on April 13.

Achieving outstanding scholarships, fourteen Seniors represented the top 3% of the 1976 class. The grade point averages, accumulated from the ninth through the twelfth grades, ranged from 4.0 to 3.9. Seven students achieved a perfect GPA of 4.0. This high grade point average enabled students to apply and receive an automatic "Honors-at-Entrance" scholarship to Brigham Young University, Utah State University, and University of Utah.

Boys, Girls Staters Study Government Procedures

Government experience was the objective of the American Legion in sponsoring twelve students for Boys State at Utah State and two girls for Girls State at Southern Utah State. During the week of June 9 to 15, students participated in rallies, campaigns, and two party elections which kept the staters involved as they elected a governor, legislators and a president.

Students from all over the state competed for the honor to attend by filling out an application and attending an interview.

English Pupils Explore World Of Literature

To fullfill the four years of English credit, Panthers enrolled in American literature, English literature, language, drama, speech, theatre arts, communications, writing, debate, and journalism classes. Teachers worked to teach basic principles of these classes for the State English test given to all seniors as a requirement for graduation. For the first time in five years, talented students could take one of the eight Honors English classes on their grade level.

Beginning a new program at West, the Alternative Education classes gave opportunities in self-evaluation and academics to students enrolled.

Employing Special Education students in jobs was a new facet in the Special Education program. Three more Special Ed teachers joined the Faculty because of the freshman classes coming to West for the first time.

Bicentennial Week, December 1-5, highlighted the year for Social Studies classes. "Jane Pittman" and "Ballad of an Iron Horse!" gave students a background in early American slavery and the first trains ever built. Each morning during the week the National Anthem raised students from their desks as the Stars and Stripes waved on TV screens. Completing the assignment of having an American flag in every room, Mr. Delis distributed ten flags to flagless rooms.

Science classes divided into many different areas: geology, chemistry, biology, botany, ecology, physics, and physiology. Geology students explored and studied limestone, shale and sandstone. Physics classes conducted many experiments working with lights and mirrors. Students filled one requirement towards their graduation in 45 science classes.

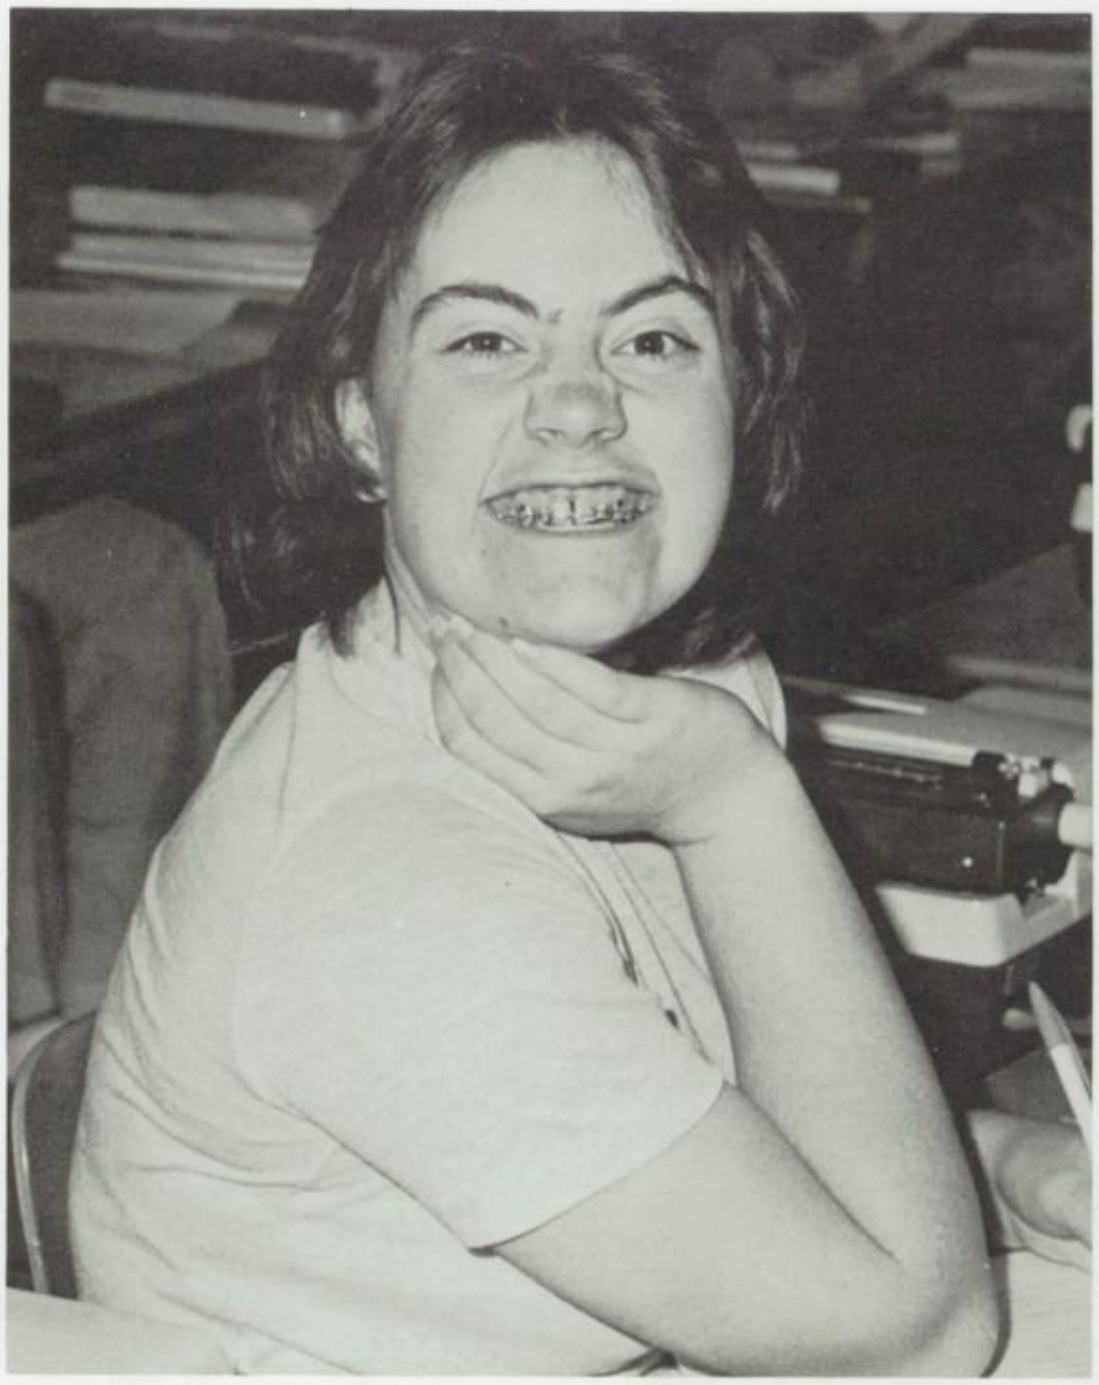
Students Gain Skills In Equations, Shorthand, Typing

Students enrolled in the business program developed skills throughout the year as they studied shorthand, transcription, office practice, marketing, type, and accounting. Working to become proficient in their respective areas, they learned to operate office equipment, sell goods to the public, and keep books. They discovered what qualities an employer likes in his workers and tried to follow those standards. As a result, 57 students experienced on-the-job training by working while still in high school.

Math classes offered a range of topics from survival math to advanced placement calculus. The survival math classes worked problems that would come up in every day situations. Other courses, such as college bound algebra 3-4, trigonometry, and calculus, prepared students for future college life. Mr. Russell stated, "There is a growing trend on advanced math classes for the more accellerated students, to give them a college boost."



Taking a minute from her shorthand class Joleen Noyce smiles willingly to show off her newest addition, shining braces.

Tenacious Athletes Do Not Give Way Under Pressures

Everywhere between the freshmen and the seniors were gym classes, which came in all shapes and sizes. The rough, tough men wanted athletics or weight-training. The sweet, graceful women wanted dance or gymnastics.

Learning gymnastics routines, the girls worked on flips, walk-overs and aerials. Starting the day with a pad drill, the gymnasts learned simple commands, such as, "straight standing, inverted arched, jump-hopping, and tuck and roll." Dance routines required skills in coordination, balance, and poise.

Boys gym classes started the day with jumping jacks and push-ups. Their activities included lifting weights, running laps and wrestling. They also played football, baseball and basketball. Members of the sophomore and freshmen basketball teams held their team work-outs in the LDS Salt Lake 17th ward; junior varsity's action took place at HoraceMann and the varsity men worked-out at the boys' side of the gym.

Every home football and basketball game had one thing in common: the ROTC Color Guard. They presented the colors while the crowd sang the national anthem. If, somehow, they escaped your notice, ROTC also had a coed rifle team, a girls drill team, color guard and-unlike any other school-a coed drill team.

Directed by Sergeant Nowell, the 155 members studied the military rifle, and a trip to the police rifle range enabled every member to fire one. Helping students understand aircraft, an Army helicopter gave them a ride above the football field and around the valley. On March 1, ROTC underwent a General Inspection given by Army Officers, which takes place only once a year.

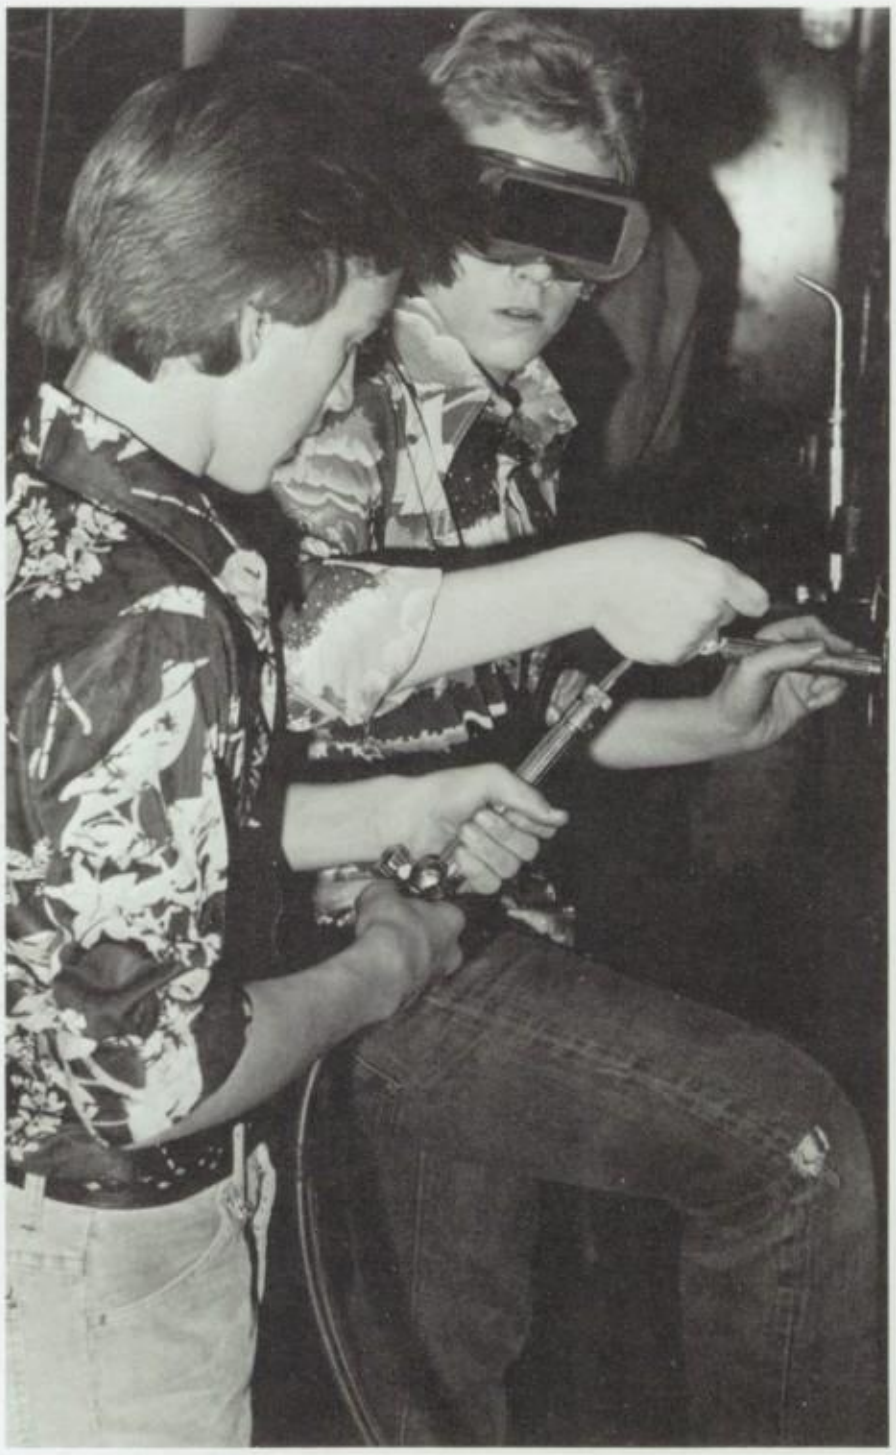
Cooking, sewing, and child development were topics in the Home Ec Departments. Male students took part in the bachelor arts program which included cooking, sewing, and child development classes. They sewed boxer shorts and vests, and prepared breakfasts and cookies. Girls made quilts, plaid garments, infant clothes, and articles for themselves. The vocational sewing students tackled tailored suits and alterations. Panthers discussed filmstrips on shopping, budgeting, and child birth in family life and child development. Playschool activities helped students in teaching children.

Motors, drills, and sanders buzzed during the year in the shops. Saws cut wood to make cabinets, cedar chests, and tables. In auto mechanics, engines hummed and a new car painting booth developed auto repair skills. Shop workers also made metal and steel products, such as lamps and book ends, exercising their abilities in that field. Electricians tinkered with wire, sockets, and computers.



West shop students, Kevin and Ron, learn the importance of precise and expert movements in third period vocational welding classes.

Artists Display Work at Living Arts Festival

Music is a pleasure for Becky Valdez as she smiles in orchestra.

Mr. Hunt, Mr. Steele, and Mr. Densley helped Panthers develop artistic talents. Students drew sketches of landscapes, people, and objects. They also created and colored drawings to learn proportion, intensity and color values. Leather belts and purses, brass pendants, ceramics and wooden figures filled the show cases as the artists finished their projects. Displayed at the Living Arts Festival were many of the students' accomplishments.

Darol Denison and James Maher headed the two music departments, putting on three main concerts together which included a Christmas program, a concert honoring American Composers, and "Song of America" on May 4. They also provided the instrumental and vocal music for "Little Mary Sunshine."

Panther Culminates Year In 216 Page Chronology

"To form a more perfect union" began the theme page for the 1976 Panther. Twenty-two members divided into seven different areas: editors, copywriters, proofreaders, photographers, typists, artists, and business managers. Editors worked on capturing a spirit for the book to tie in with school and the Bicentennial. They incorporated a Bicentennial theme in the cover design, in backgrounds for pictures and in two pages devoted solely to the Bicentennial. Increasing the number of pages to 216, the editors planned a section for the new freshman class, thus recording class pictures for the 2200-member studentbody. Copywriters traveled to various rooms to interview sponsors and teachers to write their copies. They also wrote all captions and headlines. The photographers snapped many events during the Bicentennial year to refresh students minds in later years. The artist helped draw layouts and designed a cover symbolizing school and nation.

The staff started working on the book in the middle of June to meet seven deadlines during the year. They sent the pages to American Yearbook in Visalia, California. During these months room 206 became home for the staff.

A new enlarger, six reels, two tanks, four trays, and a new sink for the darkroom aided photographers in developing their skill and talents.

During the summer seniors went to the studio of their choice for their portraits, and ZCMI took undergraduate pictures September 17,18 and 19.

News was the business that occupied 36 journalists during the year. Working seventh period, RED AND BLACK staff planned for the nine issues of the school paper. Reporters, photographers, artists, business managers, feature, news, sports, editorial, and Sound Off writers combined to meet deadlines, often working after school and at home to finish their assignments on time.

Writers Display Talents For WEST WINDS

"Art takes many forms," as the students in Kristine Matthews' seventh period discovered. Concentrating on a different form of writing each term, they learned how to write descriptive essays, short stories, and poetry. Each individual strove to master the art of creative writing. They discovered which type of writing they were best at and developed their talents until their work was eligible for WEST WINDS.

Involving the whole school in WEST WINDS, the staff sponsored a serious and humorous essay contest and a poetry contest. Writers throughout the school offered their work. The staff read through the entries and decided which were the best with winners receiving the honor of having their work printed in the literary magazine.

Fourth term found the staff making final decisions on entries, then compiling and editing the selected works. The result: WEST WINDS 75-76.

Key Club Holds Sub-For-Santa

The thirty-five members of Key Club met Tuesday mornings before school with Ron Huber acting as president; Scott Nolte, vice-president; Sherrie Westover, secretary; and Stephanie Spafard, historian. Being a service group, Key Club went to different stores who donated merchandise that was sold to buy turkeys for the turkey-shoot. For Christmas they sold season tickets to the Stars convention and received a profit that went toward their Sub-For-Santa project. Every Thursday two members were guests at luncheons sponsored by the Kiwanis Club.

Whirling, twirling, and gliding, twenty-one Dance Club members acquired skill in the art of dance. Expressing ideas and moods through motion, the girls devoted time and energy to develop individual style and form for their concert presented on March 4 and 5 in the West High auditorium. Moving in rhythm to music, the girls choreographed their own dances that ranged from two to seven minutes in length. The students created their own costumes for dances in these areas: lyrical, abstract, modern, jazz, tap and Oriental. Officers for the club were Suzann Littleford, president; Colette Hogan, vice-president; and Jennifer Lloyd, secretary. Mrs. Elsie Brown sponsored the club.

West's spirit squad led Panthers to many state championships. Drumming up spirit with back flips, cart wheels, round-offs and other forms of acrobatics, the 1975-76 Cheerleaders led yells during pep assemblies, basketball and football games, and psyched students by cheering through the halls. The eight Cheerleaders were in charge of planning Spirit Week, State Week, and creating the comical skits performed each week during pep assemblies.

Attending a week-long seminar in July at Utah State, they learned new chants to bring back to the studentbody. With Corby Wolfe as head cheerleader and Trisha Toone, head songmistress, the spirit boosters practiced daily in the summer months.

Besides football and basketball, the Cheerleaders generated enthusiasm for the wrestling, swim, and baseball teams.

Flipping out onto the football field or basketball court came the Junior Varsity cheerleaders with black shirts, red vests and plaid pants and skirts. They helped the Varsity cheerleaders in leading yells and chants, but their main purpose was to bring spirit to the junior varsity games.

On the morning of game days the JV's cheered up and down the halls with Pep Club and the Varsity cheerleaders. They also made "Welcome" signs for the visiting athletics fans. The JV Cheerleaders also performed in many pep assemblies and planned some of them such as the all-state assembly for the football championship game against Bountiful.

During second period they worked to perfect gymnastic abilities such as double stunts, back-handsprings, somies, aeriels, back-layouts and handstands. They also organized their cheers and synchronized hand movements.

Service projects, parties, and luncheons kept West Associated Girls involved. Their first major undertaking was the WAG dance on September 27 when couples swayed to the music of Time Line. Refreshments served by WAG were green slush and apple squares. "As Time Goes By" became the first dance ever to be held in the cafeteria.

On Friday, September 26, club members decorated two fences for Homecoming, one with the WAG seal and the other one for the WAG dance in yellow, green, and orange.

For their first service project the girls went to a resthome at Thanksgiving and took the residents little turkeys made with pine cones. At Christmas they took gifts and food to a needy family in the area.

Making athletics alive with fast moving plays, the West High Hockey Team initiated the season expecting to continue this new sport at West for years. The fifteen skaters of the team worked to execute plays and moves with great speed, style and skill. Meeting Tuesday and Thursday mornings at 6:00, members practiced to improve for their games. The Panthers played six teams during the season on three different ice arenas, Bountiful Recreation, Hygeia Ice, and the Salt Palace. Led by sponsors Ted Caldwell and Brent Evanson and team captain Dean McArthur, they competed on Thursday and Saturday nights.

Two hundred seniors attended the Awards Banquet May 28 in the Hotel Utah Lafayette Ballroom. The Awards Committee honored students who earned 30 award points. The program consisted of seven speakers, one from each area. Each senior received a certificate for meritorious achievement.

Red and black gowns paraded down the aisles in the Tabernacle on June 4 for the 1976 Commencement exercises. On January 19, the committee began to select the commencement speakers under the direction of Mrs. Kristine Matthews. Practices on May 28 and June 1 in the gym acquainted seniors with the seating and marching procedures.

Sportsmen Increase School Spirit, Quell Fights

In addition to taking up all the space in the main hall, members of Sportsmanship Club met frequently and sought to increase school spirit and promote sportsmanship. At exchanges on game days during football and basketball seasons, members worked with neighboring schools to quell possible brawls and quarrels between students. To discuss mutual problems and to find suggestions on how to improve West, they invited dissenters to home game luncheons. On January 16, South invited West to a luncheon.

There reigns no hunter's shout;
But their name is on our waters,
It lives:
West's Native Americans.

To join the Black Student Union, students must meet two requirements: be black and be in harmony with others striving for the betterment of blacks and their relationship to other races. Members of the BSU met regularly with sponsor, Ms. Marsha Boyd, to discuss the problems of the black students. Contributing their time and energy to others, the Club gave underprivileged families happier holidays with a Sub-For Santa project. Black History Week dominated West during February 12-16. Thirty-seven students participated in an assembly presented to the studentbody and highlighted the week at a soul food dinner in the social room.

Contributing their spirit, they wore their uniforms on the days of a wrestling match. The girls team-treated the wrestlers with popsicles and fruit. Decorating locker rooms and homes with streams of crepe paper and signs was also a project of the Wrestling Club. Accumulated points for attending wrestling matches allowed the girls to go to a party at the end of the year honoring the wrestlers and girls who supported them.

The officers were Nancy Bowden, president; Lark Bagley, vice-president; Michele Brown, secretary; Kathy Dodge, historian; and Catherine Evans, treasurer.

FHA was not an organization; it was an extension of the classroom. The girls were busy in class cooking and sewing so FHA was an enrichment of the Home Economics Department. Every girl enrolled in Home Economics was a member of FHA, but each class had two representatives to meet with other classes to plan service projects and activities such as the fashion show for the Living Arts Festival in May. Future Homemakers of America participated in monthly activities such as demonstraions from the Continental College of Beauty and a trip to Mountain Fuel Supply Company.

Debaters Debate At Debate Meets

Imagine students arguing for a whole period every day all year to build self-confidence and the ability to think logically. That's what Debate was really about. The Debaters met first, second, or third periods with Mrs. Matthews to learn the techniques of cross examination and Oxford styles for argumentation. They also prepared for the debate question for the year, which was Resolved: That the development and allocation of scarce world resources should be controlled by an international organization.

Under the direction of Mrs. Sacco, nineteen office aids performed their jobs throughout the year by running pink slips, handling attendance cards, carrying supplies, and delivering messages. Spending the rest of their time answering phones, mimeographing copies of the school bulletin, working with the computer sheets, and stuffing report cards, the aids tried to be useful to counselors, secretaries, and faculty.

Media Aids assisted the media staff and students during the year. Four aids each period checked out books, magazines, and audio visual equipment. They shelved books, filed cards, typed checkout cards and holders, and glued them in the back of books. Aids in the electronics control center helped run the video tapes under the direction of Judy Grant. All media workers received an English credit.

Instrumentalists Practice Daily, Perform Often

Strains of "Look for A Sky of Blue" and "The Sweet Colorado Love Song" floated from the strings and woodwinds of the 55 member orchestra for LITTLE MARY SUNSHINE. They played the prelude, the musical accompaniments, and special musical effects such as the cuckoo and Indian music which foretold the approach Chief Brown Bear.

The Orchestra performed with a cappella and junior choir playing a patriotic concert on November 6 and a Christmas concert on December 17. "American Composers" was the theme of the March 4 concert, and on May 6, they presented, "The Song of America," which was a musical saga of our country's founding. Other activities included a Southern Utah tour and concert, and a festival competition.

"A most successful year", said Darol Dennison, director of the Concert Band. The 80 members practiced together only when a concert was coming up. On November 11 they played at Memory Grove for Veteran's Day. Programs at Jordan, Northwest, and Bryant Junior Highs gave future high school musicians a goal to achieve. Performing for each other, West's musicians met with Viewmont on December 2. In the spring, members of Concert Band and Orchestra joined to tour Southern Utah and presented concerts at St. George, Cedar City, and Manti. Instrumentalists traveled to Granite High on April 22 to paticipate in the Region Festival for 1976. One of the numbers rendered at the Spring Concert was Gould's "American Salute."

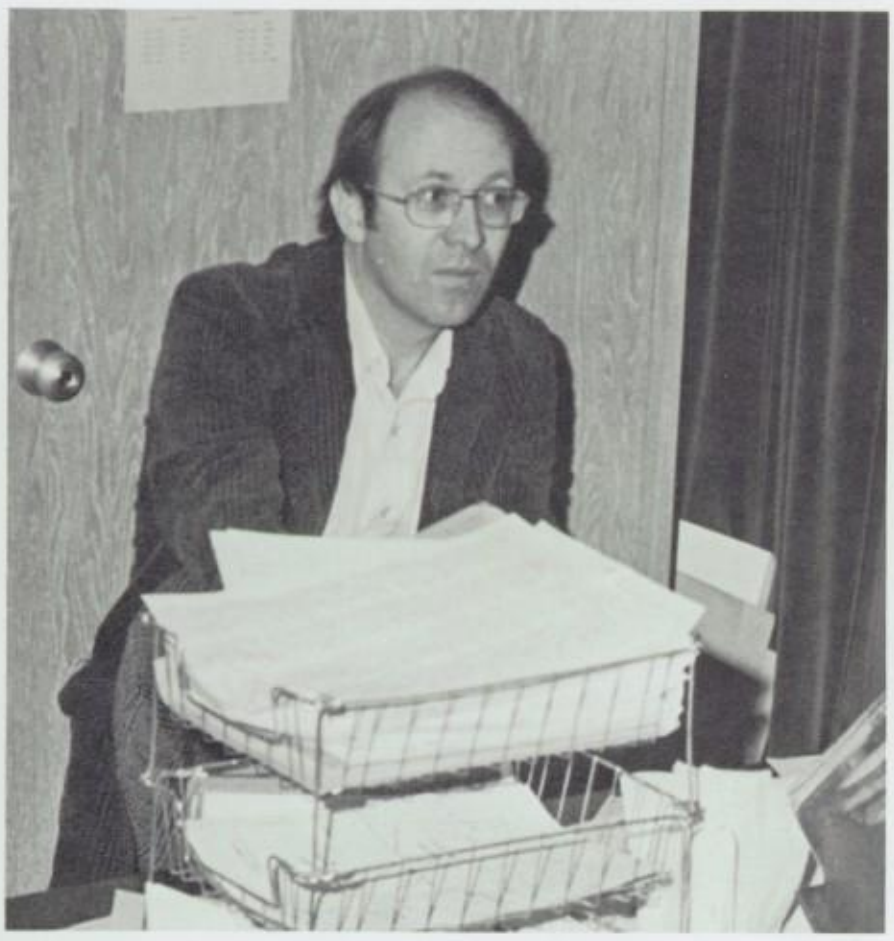
Theatre Arts Brings Thespians New Experience



Mr. Gary Walton
Sponsor

Theatre Arts sponsor Gary Walton, provided an opportunity for students to become involved in drama outside of the classroom. Calling themselves Theatre 301, the Thespians worked to develop talent in all aspects of Theatre Arts: lighting, make-up, set design, and acting. The members - occupied with festivals, conventions, childrens theatre, and field trips to BYU, Utah State, and Dixie College - gained experience about the working theatre and artistic interpretation.

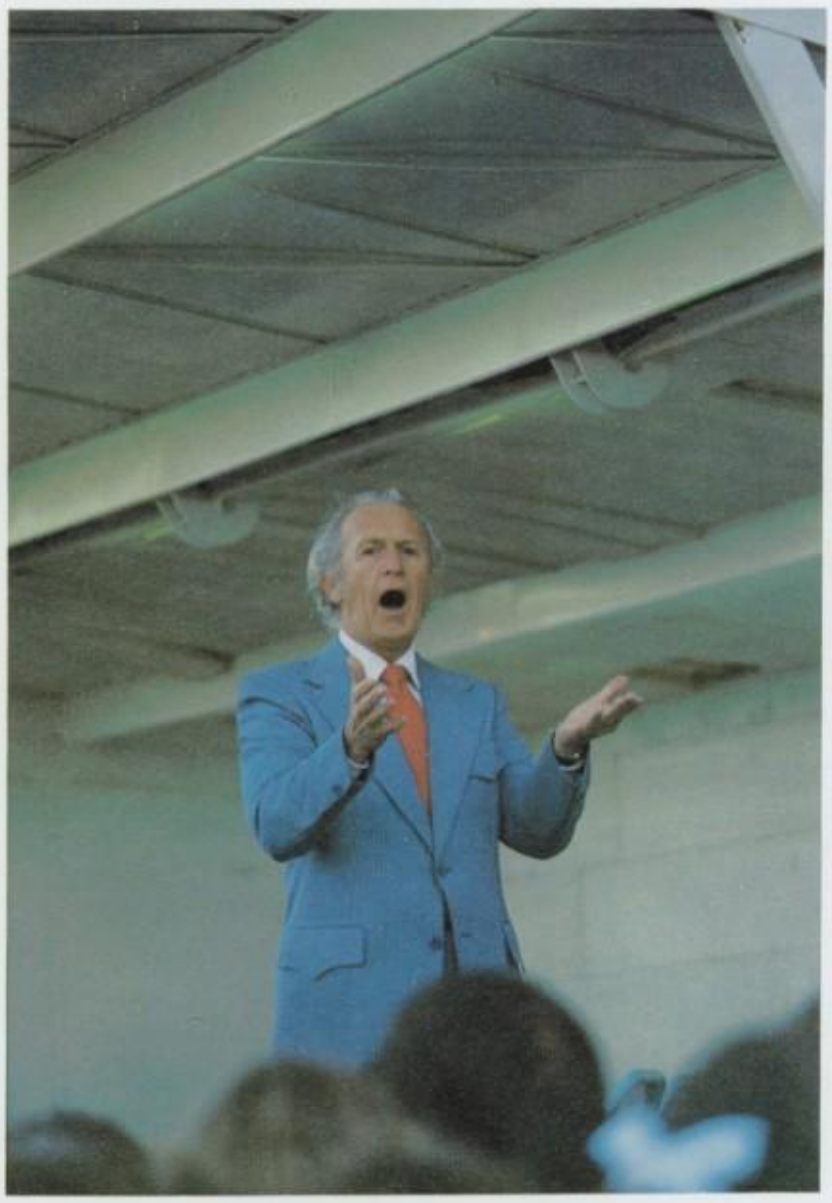
A Cappella studies their music as they practice "Where in the World But in America" for Bicentennial patriotic programs.



Mr. Maher raises his hands to urge the A Cappella to sustain a note in "God Bless America" at the opening of the Freedom Train.

Knowing they had to "chalk up" three repertoires for the year, unlike the usual two, A Cappella worked every day fourth period under Mr. James Maher.

The singers, arrayed in the traditional school colors of red and black, presented Sunday programs including "I Have Longed", "Prayer for Our Time", "Sing Ye Righteous", and "This Is The Day" to many Sabbath congregations.

Honoring America's forefathers, pioneers, and leaders, the Bicentennial A Cappella, wearing red, white and blue, joined the Junior Choir and the James Maher Quire to perform three patriotic concerts. When the Freedom Train arrived in Utah on October 16, A Cappella was there to greet it with "America, Our Heritage" and "God Bless America."

Singing at the city malls, the Kennecott Building, ZCMI, and on street corners, A Cappella spread the Christmas spirit with songs varying from "Away In A Manger" to "Ring Those Christmas Bells." On Christmas Eve 104 voices echoed off the walls of Our Lady of Lourdes Cathedral.

The 1975-76 A Cappella ended the year by singing "Now The Day Is Over" at the graduation exercises on June 4 in the Tabernacle.

Junior Choir participated in many more performances than in the past because of the Bicentennial year. They had uniforms for the first time thus blending into the patriotic color scheme of a cappella when they sang together. The girls wore red dresses and the boys wore blue vests and white shirts.

They performed for the Freedom Train October 16, along with a cappella and musical groups from other schools. On November 6, they staged a performance with a cappella, orchestra and the James Maher Quire.

Ushering in the Christmas spirit, Junior Choir sang for the lighting ceremony at the Tabernacle, December 6.

On March 24 they put on a patriotic program with the theme, American Composers and Folk Music. With the orchestra and a cappella they presented a history of the Bicentennial on May 19. Officers were Vaughn Johnson, president; Calvin Lloyd, vice-president; and Jennie Zaragoza, secretary, along with section leaders.

Emphasizing note values, Mr. Maher directs the Junior Choir with very precise movements.

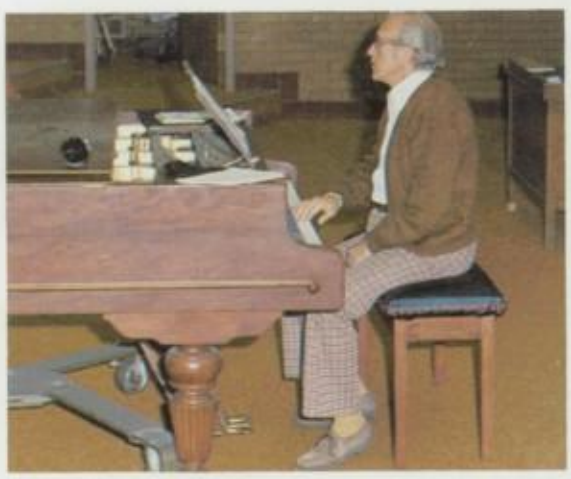
"Within these halls which surround us all..." rang out as the 1975-76 Chorale introduced the freshman and sophomore classes to the school song on September 12 at the orientation assembly.

Meeting sixth period, the 29-member Chorale, under the direction of James D. Maher, rehearsed singing a variety of songs ranging from Madrigals to folk to popular. Performing "The Christmas Waltz", "Winter Wonderland", and their own version of "Jingle Bells", Chorale brought in the Christmas season to civic clubs, rest homes, and for many of the prominent hotels in the area. The Fort Douglas and Salt Lake Country Clubs were also scenes of concerts.

In uniforms of black tuxedos and red floor-length dresses, they presented "Begone Dull Care", "Let Me Be the One", and others as they entertained people of the community, conveying the spirit and respect West High students have for Salt Lake, Utah, and the country.



Mr. Maher pounds out parts for Chorale as they practice sixth period for performances.

Drill Team Sponsor Miss Condie concentrates on the girls as they march at half time.

Early six a.m. practices lured sixteen girls to the football field during the summer months, starting June 9 to prepare members of Drill Team for the coming school year. Workouts consisted of running around the track, marching across the field, and working on splits.

Red velvet dresses and black boots greeted the crowd at the presentation march September 12 in an assembly. During the year Drill Team performed at home games and for the Utah Stars.

Involvement in Homecoming activities included decorating a fence with a yellow sun and a blue background, saying: "Oestanas; Shine On."

Freshmen Join Alumni In Homecoming Traditions

Junior and senior smiles mingled with freshman and sophomore hellos as students readied themselves for the schoolwork and activities ahead.

Egg-throwing, cider-guzzling and hopscotch were some of the activities E-Board planned for Homecoming Week. The Powder Puff football game exhibited the school spirit of 53 female gridders. Topping off the week, the Homecoming dance sponsored by WAG displayed the cafeteria in colors of green and gold as alumni and students danced to the music of Time Line.

As September rolled into October, Mark Maldenaldo and Tim Gautier became new E-Board officers for the freshman and sophomore classes.

"Little Mary Sunshine" Captures Audiences

"Look for a Sky of Blue" and "Me a Heap Big Injun" were just two of twenty-two songs and dances rehearsed in August in preparation for the school play, LITTLE MARY SUNSHINE. The light musical operetta presented October 1, 2, and 3 involved romance, danger and action in the early 1900's at an inn high in the Rocky Mountains of Colorado.

Little Mary Sunshine is the sweet proprietress of the Colorado Inn who is in love with Captain "Big Jim" Warington, the brave leader of the Forest Rangers.

After song and dance, the stouthearted Forest Rangers win the hands of the lovely young ladies from the Eastchester Finishing School. In the finale, good overcomes evil, and the American flag waves patriotically.

"Little Mary Sunshine" Brightens October

A no-loss season brought the football team to first place in Region III. The Granite game was a close call, but Taryn Culverwell saved the day by kicking a field goal with six seconds left in the game. The final score was 16-14. This success insured a spot in the State Tournament.

Students had a short vacation as teachers gave up their classrooms for conferences during the UEA Convention on October 9 and 10.

The month's activities came to a close as students brought pillows, sleeping bags, and bean bag chairs to watch the Halloween movie, THE BEAST MUST DIE, sponsored by E-Board in the gym.

Filling the air with the Yuletide Spirit, A Cappella and Junior Choir presented Christmas Programs at ZCMI, Fashion Place, and Cottonwood Malls. They climaxed the season with a Christmas program on December 17.

For Bicentennial Week, December 1-5, all social study classes viewed over video tape "Ballad of an Iron Horse" and "The Autobiography of Miss Jane Pittman". Music filled the auditorium on December 3 as the Utah Symphony performed.

The Capital Rotunda, decorated in light and dark blue, set the mood for the Christmas Dance, sponsored by Pep Club, on December 13. Chorale sang "Let it Snow" and "Christmas Song".

Basketball, Yearbook Deadlines Spark Winter Season

Highland High Rams beat the Panthers on January 6 in their first league basketball game of the season, but on January 9 the hoopsters came back to defeat Olympus by 27 points. A stomp that night celebrated the cagers' win as students mingled in the gym. During the week of January 19 students studied for semester finals. For the entire month West's athletic department had full schedules in wrestling, swimming, bowling, and basketball.

FEBRUARY

Spirit Week Hoists Panther Enthusiasm

Tension rose during the first week of February as Spirit Week ripped through West on Friday 6.

Compeition reached its height as skits, tug-o-wars, yelling, and egg throwing contests put the seniors in first place.

WAG sponsored "Singing Valentines" on Friday the 13th, and on the 14th the Prudential Plaza became the home of the annual Junior Prom, "In Time". Couples danced to the music of Skye and finished with a late dinner.

1. Janene Patrick hangs a "W" during the senior spirit skit. 2. Nancy and Joe collect points for seniors as they find the 50's dance "swingin' fun." 3. Spirit Week demonstrates the uniqueness of Poop Club as Bill and Dave carry in their rock. 4. Anciously awaiting the pin, Mark Gunderson yells encouragement to a matman.

MARCH

To achieve perfection of form and style, 21 dancers worked for six months to prepare for the March concert. Performing on the 4th and 5th, they used lights, music and costumes to produce special effects. The week of March 15-20 took the 4-A Basketball Tournament to the Special Events Center at the U of U. The E-Board dance on the 27th lighted the ZCMI Center as couples danced in the new mall. On the 29th, John Goddard ended the month with his annual assembly.

APRIL

Spring Fever Strikes Panthers in April Setting

Spring fever, sunny skies, and warm weather brought the school year two months away from closing. Activities for students increased as the year's end drew near. On April 14, the Junior Choir traveled to South High for the annual Junior Choir festival. When school resumed after the Easter holiday, April 15 and 16, A Cappella journeyed to South for a festival. On the night of the 30th, young men und their dates picnicked and then returned to the games and fun in the gym for the annual Western Round-Up.

MAY-JUNE

Class of '76 Graduates June 4

World politics was the topic for 23 Model UN students as they met at the U of U on May 7-9. Providing a diversion from last minute school work, the Living Arts Festival combined art work, homemaking, and drama on the 13th. The Layfayette Ballroom was the scene of the Awards Banquet on the 27th with seniors attending who had earned 30 award points. On May 28 students lit out for Lagoon and spent the day on rides, eating and loafing.

Thoughts turned back as editors Barbara Carlisle and Lance Mecham presented the 75-76 Yearbook to Dr. Fowler at the Awards Assembly. Leaving studies behind, students thronged the halls writing special words to friends. For the seniors, these were the last days to associate with old classmates and the familiar routine. What lay ahead, whether good or bad, could not be determined. On June 4, 449 seniors entered the Tabernacle as the graduating class of '76 and emerged, no longer high school students, to face the future.

1. As graduating seniors walk into the Tabernacle, Dr. Fowler opens the 1975-76 Commencement exercises. 2. In front of the Seminary building, Julie Davis signs a yearbook on the last day of school. 3. Surrounded by friends, Patti Clark writes summer farewells.

The loss of the State 4-A trophy in 1974 sparked varsity football players for 1975. Applying themselves, sportsters slaved and sweat to spurt the summer skirmishes two hours a day. Playing two pre-season, seven league, and three state tournament games, the Panthers scored 284 points to 88 points for their opponents. Two important decisions made during season play gave West a victory. With only twelve seconds left in the Granite game and with a few minutes to go against Olympus, Head Coach Gene Plaga gave the go-ahead for a field goal to be kicked, which gave the squad wins and an undefeated season.

Chosen by the DESERET NEWS and the TRIBUNE were six all-state and seven all-region stars. Captain Steve Marshall ranked as the only member to return and make all-state and all-region for two consecutive years. Perry Bradford held the position as the Most Valuable Player by both papers for 4-A. The coaches led the team to a first place title in Region Three, number one in State, and eleventh in the nation.

They placed third in Region. At the end of the season they attended two banquets, one presented by the faculty and one by Pep Club.

Clark Godfrey, George Zember, and Rod Miner coached 86 sophomores to a 4-win, 2-loss, 1-tie record, preparing them for JV and Varsity Football.

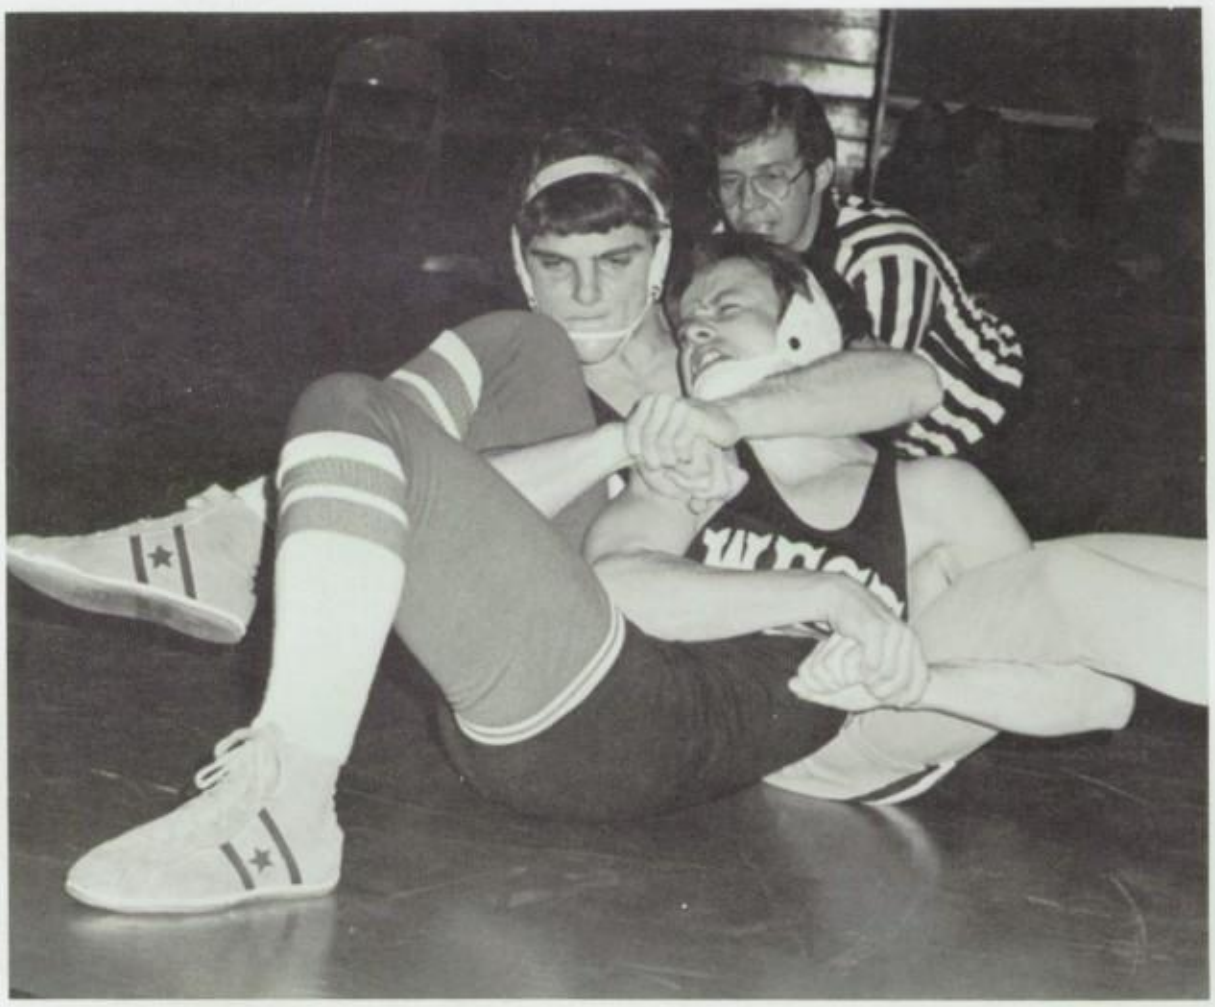
Wrestlers' Expertise Show Hard Work, Agility

Carrot sticks, celery, and apples helped to keep West High's Wrestling squad healthy and within weight limits. Twelve varsity men classified into different categories ranging from 98 pounds to heavyweight. The wrestlers divided into three separate groups: exhibition for sophomores and freshmen, junior varsity, and varsity. The team practiced every day during third and seventh periods and after school until 6:00. They worked on positions like the cradle, Oklahoma, crossface, the Nelson, half-Nelson and reverse. The requirement to run 100 wind sprints after each match kept the matmen in condition.



With individualized effort and unmistakable skill, a junior wrestler faces a lone struggle for team points as he painfully masters the use of every muscle.

Netters Perfect Forehand, Backhand Techniques

Holding tryouts beginning March 2, Coach Ed Thomas selected the players for the 1976 Tennis Team. Each weekday afternoon starting seventh period, members practiced lobbing, serving, slamming, volleying, and perfecting backhand and forehand techniques on either the West High courts or at the Riverside Park courts. To get in shape for pre-season, season, and state competition, netters jogged around the park several times during their practice period. The Panthers hoped for success on the courts by engaging in single and double matches with team members. Autumn months brought tennis enthusiasts out to practice among themselves. The season officially began in April and continued till early May. The BYU invitational meet held in May highlighted the Panther netters' competition for the Bicentennial year.

Panthers Soar Past Cubs 78-73 In Tense Overtime

The 1975 State Basketball team's efforts paid off at the South game. The Panthers were behind by eight points, with two minutes to go. Then they gained enough points to tie at the buzzer and the game went into overtime. After that West took over the lead and held it for a win of 78-73.

Wins also over Granite, Olympus, and East helped to boost the mighty Panthers closer to State.

Scott Runia, with an average of 19-20 points per game, was high scorer, with Steve Marshall second highest scorer. The team had daily workouts from seventh period until 6:30 in the evening to build endurance and stamina.

The cagers went into the state tournament in Region third place and ranked seventh in the state.

Junior Varsity Hoopsters Dribble, Shoot, Score

Former sophomore superstars became Junior Varsity jumpers as JV Basketball got underway with pre-season games against Bear River, Layton, Davis, and Bingham.

One of the JV's objectives was to help the Varsity team on to state by playing against them in practices. To gain experience, they worked with them in the gym from 2:30 until 6:00 p.m. daily. Two players were active at the Varsity games, Calvin Johnson and Rick Lawrence.

"There's a lot of potential in this team," Coach Leo Nielson stated. "Discipline is a big factor in training a team, especially if they go on up to varsity playing." Bowlers, 1st in Region, Roll on Toward State 1976 proved to be a winning year for Panther bowlers as they took first place in region and state bowling tournaments. The 24 rollers of the girls' and boys' varsity and junior varsity attempted strikes but achieved many spares for high games. Rancho Bowling Lanes served as the court for the team during practices and home games. The players bowled against East, Highland, and South, with Miss Shawna Brinton sponsoring the girls' and Mr. Ralph Gatherum taking over the boys' teams. Bowlers scored many high games, but Joe Dawson came in at the top with 256 and a series of 636.

Preparing for region competition, squad members ran an average of five miles a day from West to Memory Grove and Redwood Road. Winning three out of four dual meets, varsity placed fourth at the region meet. February offered Panther soccer athletes a time to begin practices for the 1976 Soccer Team. Players met weekly to work on four of soccer's most required techniques: the coordination and skills for bouncing the ball with the head, blocking, dribbling, and kicking. They also exercised to build up endurance to last the entire game. Forwards, half-backs, and goalies learned and applied offensive and defensive plays for region games.

Soccer players Jody, Perry and Ron skillfully plan upcoming strategy for the Highland game.

Region baseball champions for 1975 practiced sixth and seventh periods and after school to prepare for the baseball season which started March 20. Under the direction of Gene Plaga and Don Johnson, the sluggers strengthened muscles with exercises such as sit-ups, jumping jacks, and push-ups. Leading hitters were Ben Groce, Steve Marshall, and Mike Vlamakis.

Discus Volleys Through the Air

Varying from leaping over poles to throwing them, the Track Team brought individual effort to a team basis. Competing in high hurdles, low hurdles, 440, 880, and two mile relay, the tracksters worked seventh period and at after school practices. Keeping a distance between them and their opponents and determining to prepare for up-coming meets, this mobile squad timed their sprints around the track and measured heights and distances achieved.

The golfers practiced seventh period and after school at the Rose Park Golf Course to improve swinging, putting, and driving. Henry White, for the second consecutive year, was second in the state and was one stroke off of being the medalist. Coach Calevas instructed the men in their seven meets against Highland, East, Olympus, South, and Cottonwood. THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

On Friday, June 28,1776, Thomas Jefferson and his associates, John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, Roger Sherman, and Robert Livingston, submitted the first draft of the Declaration of Independence to be viewed by Congress. Congress passed the Declaration on July 4, 1776. The people of Philadelphia celebrated this document on the following Monday, July 8, 1776, by a mass meeting of the people. In years to follow this celebration continued and the use of fire works became general over the years.

THE FLAG

The flag of 1777 was used until 1795, Congress then passed an act that after May 1, 1795, the flag should have fifteen stripes, alternate red and white representing each state, and fifteen stars on a blue union. When new states entered the union it became evident that the flag would become burdened with stripes. Congress ordered that after July 4, 1818, the flag should have thirteen stripes symbolizing the thirteen original states, and the union have twenty stars.

THE CONSTITUTION

Delegates from the original thirteen colonies directed the War of Independence. They were called the Congress of the United States of America and were generally known as the Continental Congress. The need for stronger federal union to protect the mutual interests of the states became evident after the colonies won the war. Alexander Hamilton asked delegates from all states to meet in Philadelphia in May 1787 to write some form of law. George Washington and 38 other delegates signed the Constitution on September 17, 1787.

STATUE OF LIBERTY

Since 1886, the Statue of Liberty has stood as a symbol of freedom in New York Harbor. The people of France gave it to the United States to commemorate French-American friendship. Craftsmen began work on the statue, designed by Fredrick Auguste Bartholdi, in 1874 in Paris.

THE STAR-SPANGLED BANNER

During the bombardment of the British on September 13 and 14, 1814, Francis Scott Key, who witnessed the attack from his own vessel, wrote the words of the "Star-Spangled Banner." The fight began at seven a.m. and lasted intermittantly for 25 hours. The British fired over 1,500 shells, each weighing as much as 220 pounds. During the heavy holocaust, Key wrote a stanza on the back of an envelope. The following day he wrote the poem out and Congress designated it as the National Anthem on March 3, 1931.

BICENTENNIAL IN UTAH

A kickoff to Utah's Bicentennial year featured Chief Justice Burger of the Supreme Court. He spoke to citizens in the Tabernacle on September 6, 1975, talking about the Bicentennial and 200 years of freedom. Streaking across the United States in its colors of red, white, and blue, the Freedom Train spent a week in Salt Lake beginning October 16. The train displayed many firsts: Babe Ruth's baseball and bat, the golden spike, and many Hollywood props. A bond issue voted to give the Capitol Theatre a new face to house plays, operas, concerts and ballets. The project began during the Bicentennial year to produce cultural events.

HISTORY OF WEST

From 1893, Salt Lake High, later known as West High School , met in several different buildings over the years. They met in such places as the old Bryant School and upstairs in the Union Pacific Building. In 1914, Salt Lake High split and became East and West Highs. East moved into a new school and shortly after West moved into their modern new building. The same school today is being used for over 2,000 students. Plans for remodeling are now taking place.

GRADUATES OF WEST

West High graduates have contributed to the nation and its freedom. Paul A. Bloomquist, in the class of 1949, served the nation in Viet Nam. As a helicopter pilot attached to the 57th Medical Detachment, he completed 750 rescue missions and saved 913 men. He received four Distinguished Flying Crosses, three Vietnamese Crosses of Gallantry and the Bronze Star. The Army Aviation Association named him Aviator of the Year in 1965. Tom Korologos, a graduate in the class of 1951, served as administrative assistant to Senator Wallace F. Bennett and special assistant to President Nixon and later with President Ford.

American Mayaguez Captured Off Cambodian Coast

WHAT HAPPENED IN AMERICA DURING THE FIRST YEAR OF HER THIRD CENTURY?

FREEDOM-1976

803.6 million people in 40 nations and 17 dependent territories, or 19.8% of the world population lived in virtually complete freedom. Most of these clustered in North American and Western Europe.

1,436 million people in 53 nations and 31 dependencies lived in partial freedom. This included 35.5% of the world's population.

1,823 million people in 65 nations and 3 dependent territories, or 44.9% of the world's total population lived under dictatorship or other forms of government that denied people most or all political and civil rights.

ANGOLA

Most Americans vigorously opposed U.S. intervention into Angola. Americans felt that Angola could become "another Vietnam" and questioned the U.S. involvement in the area.

DETENTE

An upsurge of anti-Soviet feelings fueled criticism of detente as many Americans viewed it as a one-way street, with the Russians the big gainers. Detente also brought criticism of Henry Kissinger.

PRESIDENT FORD

Confidence in the President was generally weak with people wanting stronger leadership. Democratic presidential candidates similarly had yet to capture public conficence.

ENERGY

"Crisis" feelings eased in most places with fear of fuel shortages waning. People seemed resigned to high energy prices as people in Utah looked to additional coal mining and power plants to supplement the state's economy.

NEW YORK CITY

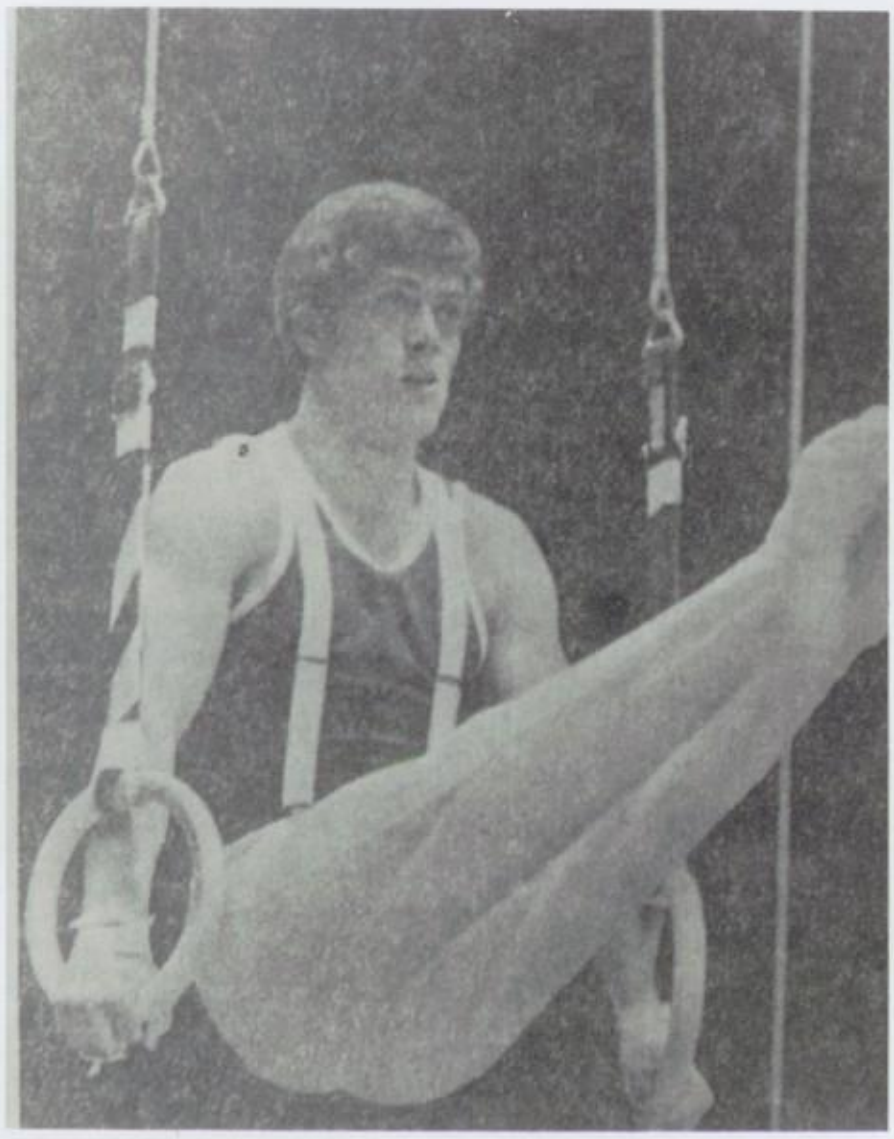
New York's economy narrowly missed default when the public debt which totaled more than 3.5 billion fell due before June 30,1976. The city escaped complete bankruptcy when the Teachers Union lent the city 150 million in October 1975.

"Americans started the new year with subdued confidence." U.S. News

John Walker sets a new mile record at 3:49.4 minutes.

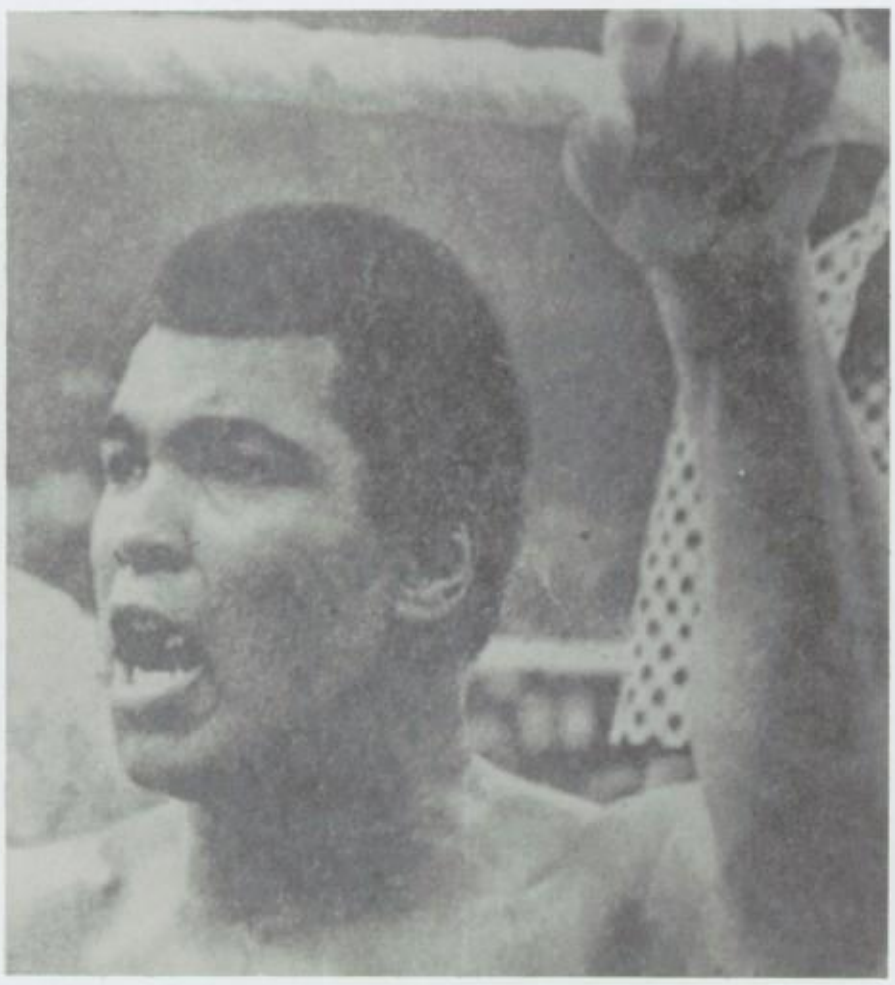
The A7 attack plane used against Cambodian naval vessels, effectively bombs eight gunboats about 35 miles from the island of Koh Tang.

Apollo, Soyuz Mission Links Americans, Russians



BYU's Wayne Young, all-around NCAA champion, performs with the Russians with eager and unbroken concentration on the rings.

The three Apollo Astronauts walk toward pad 39B before their journey into space to join the Soyuez Cosmonauts from Russia.



Muhammad Ali, predicting a first-round knock-out over challenger Joe Bugner, takes a short breather from practice to talk to newsmen.

Former California govenor Ronald Regan, makes his bid for the Republican nomination for the Presidency against Gerald Ford.

Finally published, criticized, praised and signed! To the average student the '76 PANTHER is a book to leaf through, to laugh at with a friend, to sign, and to leave on the shelf until your children are growing up. But to the 22 staff members, this book is more; it's hours of staying after school trying to print and caption a picture, type a copy, or read the final layouts.

It is said that gratitude is one of the hardest emotions to express. Everyone deserves some thanks: Peggy Quist, Joyce Christensen, Boyd Bronson, the staff, the student-body, and our parents.

"To form a more perfect union"; through this book we hope to unite your future with the 1975-76 year at West High School.
